

ABSTRACT

[0051]           A bundle clip apparatus and method of making the same includes a body that least one article receiver and a clip element for holding an article in the receiver, and a mount attachable to a support. A vibration dampening material is mounted in the receiver in contact with an article disposed in the receiver to absorb vibrations in the article from the support on which the clip is mounted. In one aspect, the vibration dampening material is double shot molded as a unitary part of the body of the bundle clip.